The Leucan 12-Hour Ski Challenge celebrates its 10th anniversary; Leucan innovates for the 2015 edition!

Montreal, December 12, 2014 – Today, Leucan officially launches the 2015 Leucan 12-Hour Ski Challenge, presented by Proxim. For the 10th anniversary of the Challenge, Leucan invites everyone to get their skis and their boards out and join the thousands of participants who will ski for cancer-stricken children.

Leucan is delighted to reveal its newest member joining the team of provincial spokespersons of the Challenge. Sylvie Fréchette (Olympic medalist in synchronized swimming) proudly joins Tobie Bureau-Huot (NRJ), Andie Duquette (singer), and Michaël Roy (sports reporter at Salut, Bonjour! weekend), returning for a second year, to complete this great team for the 2015 edition. These short videos show their reasons for getting involved and contain more details about the Leucan 12-Hour Ski Challenge.

As told by Michaël Roy, “this year, a sixth mountain joins the Challenge to gather a maximum of participants. Whether you’re with friends, colleagues or your family, come ski on Saturday, February 14th (at Mont Lac-Vert), February 21 (at Mont Cascades – the new mountain), March 7th (at Mont-Vidéo and at Vallée-du-Parc) and March 14th (at Ski Bromont and at Stoneham Mountain Resort).”

The Leucan 12-Hour Ski Challenge, organized in memory of Edgar Sirhan-Gibson, is a mobilizing activity in which participants, in teams of four, raise a minimum of $500 in donations for Leucan and must each perform at least one downhill per hour for 12 consecutive hours. “The 2015 edition of the Challenge is a 10th anniversary, four dates, six mountains in six regions and 12 hours of fun. It’s a friendly, family and participatory activity where skiers and snowboarders of all ages and all levels will experience an unforgettable day while supporting Leucan,” notes the new spokeswoman, Sylvie Fréchette.

Leucan is very proud to count on the support of Proxim, presenter of the Leucan 12-Hour Ski Challenge for a third year, and thanks the numerous regional sponsors supporting the Challenge.
